SINCE my business is ADVERTISING, I am taking my own medicine by advertising myself.
I do not intend to boast about myself but I do want to tell you what I think I can do.
There are many clever men in the field. I know I have the keenest competition to meet but that will not prevent me from getting my share of the business.
I feel so sure of being able to help some business men to do a greater business by adopting the style of advertising I believe in, that I will be willing to take a modest fee, as I am certain you would not like, in fairness to me, that I should render this service absolutely free of charge.

HEALTHY HAIR HINTS.

The idea that baldness is a sign of intellectuality is fast being exploded.

The hair is not pushed out of the head by the great knowledge inside.

In fact many learned men use Kaminia Oil to prevent their hair from coming out. They are succeeding with it, too.

So are many in all stages of intellectuality.

Available everywhere but it must be Kaminia Oil.

This Yakuti or life-giving nectar has been prepared from the best, choicest and richest vegetable drugs. It has a wonderful property of increasing the nerve power and is a specific for diseases. This valuable medicine is used in large quantities among Rajas, Maharajas and many of our esteemed customers. But we have ventured to give it publication simply with a view to place it before the general public owing to the demand of several friends. It is needless to expatiate upon the magical qualities of this our invaluable medicine. We would not like to blow the trumpet as is the fashion of the day, but suffice it to say that the use of this medicine is recommended to those who have any faith in the efficacy of Ayurvedic and Unani medicines We recommend it also to those persons who desire to tone up the nervous system, to strengthen the body, refresh the memory and to guard against debility. It works like a charm and the effect is lasting. It restores strength and it is enough to say that musk is not that which a perfumer admires, it is that which diffuses fragrance of its own accord. STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instrument ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer in the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg. F. and to the level of the tide, at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time, on the 10th October 1916 was 30.119 inches For temperature corrections applicable to mercurial barometer of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decrease by .031 inch for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 deg. F. all aneroid readings should be increased by .138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial or aneroid for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the stream at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by .010 inch for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given.

VITAL STRENGTH RESTORED
by the Nerve Nourishing Power of Dr. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Mr. George Cobble, Janjgir, P.O., C.P., writes:—"I feel I must write and tell you of the great benefit I have derived from Dr. Cassell's Tablets. This is not the first medicine I have tried for a general run-down condition, but it is the first medicine that has done me any good. I bought only one large bottle just for trial, but the Tablets have proved so beneficial that I am going to get another bottle or two so as to thoroughly strengthen all the nerve centres.

"I cannot say how glad I am that I ordered the first bottle of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I shall always feel it my duty to recommend them to any person that is in search of a remedy for a devitalised condition of the nerve centres."

There is nothing in medicine more certain than the strengthening effect of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. They nourish the nerves, enrich the blood, and restore that vital fitness that makes life a joy. You cannot fail to benefit from a course of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. Take them for lost vigour, vital exhaustion, nerve weakness, physical breakdown, neurasthenia, wasting diseases, stomach disorders, kidney troubles, sleeplessness, anaemia, heat lassitude; also in convalescence and for prevention of fevers and dysentery. Prices As. 14 and Rs. 2-2 from chemists and bazaars in all parts of India, Burma and Ceylon. On receipt of two annas for postage a free sample will be sent to you by the sole agents for India, J. Murray & Co., Ltd., P. O. Box 303, Bombay.

CROPS IN THE PRESIDENCY.

RICE.

The first memorandum on the Rice Crop of the Bombay Presidency including Sind and Native States, for the Season 1916-17, giving the estimates up to 20th September, states that the information is incomplete. Total reported and estimated area in British Territory is 1,633 thousand acres in the Presidency and 1,215 thousand acres in Sind; Natives States have 690 thousand acres in the Presidency and 7 thousand acres in Sind, making a total of 3,545 thousand acres or 15 per cent. over corresponding area last year and 3 per cent. over the average at the same date. The increase is general and is mainly due to favourable sowing rains in the Presidency and to good inundation in Sind. In Gujarat sowings were delayed a fortnight to a month in the North owing to late rains. In South Gujarat and in the Deccan and Konkan they were done timely in the first fortnight of June and in the Karnatak at the end or May. Deficient rain in July delayed transplantation in Gujarat and in the Deccan and affected early varieties in Konkan. Subsequent rains, however, have been favourable and the crop is doing well everywhere except in parts of Dharwar and S. M. C. States, where more rain is required for its proper development. In the Konkan the early varieties are nearly ripe for harvest. In Sind the crop was sown timely early in June in the North, but delayed a month in South owing to late inundation. The crop is thriving everywhere owing to good water supply.

Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1914-15 the area under Rice in the British Territory included in this forecast has represented some 3.8 per cent. of the total area under the crop in British India.

INDIGO.

The first memorandum of the Indigo Crop of the Bombay Presidency, including Sind and Native States, for the Season 1916-17, giving the estimates up to 20th September, states that the total reported and estimated area is 2,600 acres in British Territory and 5,100 acres in Khairpur State, being 64 per cent. over the corresponding area last year. Cultivation extended owing to high prices fetched by the product since the outbreak of war. The crop was sown in the second fortnight of June a little later than usual. The inundation is favourable and the crop doing well. It is estimated to produce 1,200 cwts. of the dye.

Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1914-15 the area under Indigo in the British Territory included in this forecast has represented some 1.7 per cent. of the total area under the crop in British India.

JAPANESE TEXTILE INDUSTRY.

The following letter appearing in the American "Journal of Commerce" will be read with interest in textile circles here:—

New York, Aug. 4.

Sir,—The Japanese Cotton Trading Company, Ltd., owns large cotton mills at Tokio, Saki and Yokohama and is making arrangements to establish an agency in the United States to look after this business,—that is, the sale of their cotton mill products. The pioneer ship of the new Japanese freight line from the Far East to New York City arrived in New York yesterday from Iloilo. The Japanese have their own steamers and will make their own frieght rates low accordingly. Japanese sailors receiving very low wages. Hon. R. W. Austin, member of the House of Representatives, on his trip to Japan visited a number of cotton mills and states they will favourably compare with the best in America and Europe in buildings, equipments and labour-saving devices. They pay males in cotton mills 26 cents and females 15 cents a day for ten to eleven hours' work. In one mill at Tokio he found a room full of women working for 8 cents a day. In another plant at least a thousand women and girls are working at 15 cents a day, eleven hours, board and room in quarters furnished by the company; 4½ cents a day was deducted for their meals and lodging, leaving a balance of 10½ cents net for their day's work. Fifteen of these women or girls occupy a single room, 16x18 feet in size, sleeping on the floor, without a single piece of furniture in the room. The meal consists of a saucer filled with rice and beans, a piece of fish less than the size of a silver dollar, half a Japanese radish and a cup of tea.

The above scale of wages, labor and hours, compared with American mills, tells the secret of the Japanese ability to undersell American cotton manufacturers.

The Japanese are also introducing in India a very good imitation of the Pepperell standard drills. For example: A large exporter of cotton goods in New York City has been supplying the Australian trade with light 36-inch sheeting manufactured by Southern cotton mills which is worth in the New York market to-day 5¾c. per yard. The Japanese have been taking this trade, which has amounted to 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 yards annually, at 4½c. to 4 5/8c per yard, fifteen to eighteen dollars per bale lower than American cotton goods, which would be, say from 11c. to 11½c. per yard less.

A strong protective tariff seems to be the only safeguard. No Southern mill can afford to compete with Japanese cotton mill wages, etc. Strong tariff is greatly needed to protect us against invasion of Japanese cotton goods.

DARJEELING MISSIONER
Praises The Wonderful
Zam-Buk

Mr. K. S. Peters, Church of Scotland Mission House, Darjeeling, India, writes as follows:—

"Zam-Buk certainly deserves the title of 'The Wonderful Zam-Buk.' I never use any other medicine for cuts and skin diseases, and my confidence in Zam-Buk is amply justified. If more people would use this balm they would know why I call it 'The Wonderful Zam-Buk.'

"I think it would be a good thing if everyone who knows about Zam-Buk would try to introduce it to those who have not yet tried it."

Zam-Buk FOR CUTS & SORES.

Zam-Buk has to its credit the complete and permanent cure of more cases of Eczema, Ulcers, Bad Legs, Ringworm, Piles, or Poisoned Wounds than any other known remedy. Zam-Buk is an ingeniously contrived herbal balm and contains no animal fat. Keep a pot always handy.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.

DR. BODIE'S VISIT.

Dr. Walford Bodie has made a successful tour of the East and is returning for his farewell to Bombay at the Royal Opera House. He opens next Saturday, and will only be a week here, playing two houses a night.

With him are the variety artistes who have helped to make his tour a success. They include Marie Stewart, Dolly Robson, Bella Skene and Harry Austin, while Dr. Bodie is assisted in his great scientific turn by La Belle Electra. Miss Stewart, it will be recalled, is the little girl [illegible] such frequent encores for her wonderful dancing.

Dr. Bodie's turn is too well-known to need description. He has a scientific knowledge of the effect of electricity upon certain classes of illness and is prepared to demonstrate his skill on the stage. Cases his treatment and the number of letters he of paralysis in particular have yielded to his treatment and the number of letters he has received at various times testifying to complete cures is amazing. There should therefore be large houses at the Royal Opera House on Saturday and next week, where Dr. Bodie is performing by arrangement with Mr. Bandmana.

"A PRIVATE'S FUNERAL."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—In reference to the letter "A Private's Funeral" in your issue of the 6th instant, your correspondent makes a rather misleading statement when he says that there are plenty of spare horses in 34 General Hospital. The Hospital has not such a thing in its outfit as a horse, with probably the exception of clothes horses. There are plenty of horses in the Remount Depot, but these are all young and unbroken horses and although they could be trusted with a manure cart, I do not like to think of the consequence should one get restive on the very rough road to the Cemetery. The bier drawn by bullocks is authorised for almost every Station Hospital, but in Stations where Artillery and Cavalry or Artillery and Infantry are quartered alongside each other, it is always customary for the Artillery to provide a horsed gun-carriage to either the Cavalry or Infantry, the compliment being repaid in the case of the funeral of an Artillery man by the attendance of the band of either the Cavalry or Infantry. Your correspondent might just as well deplore the absence of a band as a horsed gun-carriage. At the present time every bandsman, gun, horse and driver are required for more important purposes, and I would suggest that what has been good enough for the regular soldier in time of peace for the last twenty years that I have been soldiering in the East, is still quite good enough to continue during the present times of stress. Your correspondent, instead of putting forward a proposition that two old horses be kept in the Remount Depot for light work and funerals, etc., indulges in vituperation against officers in general, a course which only exposes him to ridicule, and the chance of being considered a "grouser." I append my name, not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.—Yours, etc.,

APPELLATE SIDE.

VALUE OF ACCOMPLICES' EVIDENCE.

ACCUSED ACQUITTED.

(Before Justices Batchelor and Shah.)

CHANDRY TUKARAM KOLI AND OTHERS v. KING EMPEROR.

These were the appeals against the decision of Mr. T. K. Boyd, Sessions Judge of Nasik, who found the accused guilty of dacoity and sentenced them to various terms of imprisonment varying from 5 to 10 years.

The facts are briefly these:—

The accused are inhabitants of different villages. Accused No. 6 was the leader of them and collected and induced them to commit a dacoity in the house of a Marwari. He gave them to understand that there was hidden treasure in the house of the Marwari and their work of looting would be easy as the Marwari had left the village on account of plague. The accused with two others, who were given pardon, went to the house of the Marwari at night, broke open the locks but to their disappointment they did not find any property. Soon after the commission of the offence three persons were put on trial and they were discharged. After some time the police, while investigating other offences, came to know the names of these accused as perpetrators of the dacoity in the Marwari's house.

The Session Judge believed the uncorroborated testimony of two accomplices on whose evidence the prosecution case entirely rested. He observed that he did not remember to have seen witnesses, who impressed him more favourably.

Their Lordships set aside the convictions and sentences.

Justice Batchelor in the course of his judgment observed that the question they had to consider was whether they were prepared to believe the uncorroborated evidence of these accomplices and to that question his Lordship was bound to return a negative answer. The appellants were entitled to the benefit of independent opinion of the appellate court. It was clear that the appellants were entitled to appeal. The value attaching to the Sessions Judge's acquittal of these witnesses must have some limit. After reviewing the evidence in the case his Lordship concluded that it was unsafe to convict the accused on the mere testimony of accomplices.

Justice Shah agreeing with his learned colleague added that this was emphatically a case in which the Sessions Judge should have made the presumption with regard to the evidence of accomplices contemplated by section 114 of the Evidence Act.

DARING BURGLARY

OLD OFFENDER GETS TWO YEARS' HARD LABOUR.

At the Esplanade Police Court, before the Third Presidency Magistrate, Deputy Inspector Fitzgerald charged Abdulgani Rehman and Balkrishna Keshav with burglary and with the theft of ornaments, valued at Rs. 1,996, belonging to Bai Manekbai, a Hindu lady. It appeared from the evidence that on the afternoon of the 11th September, Bai Manekbai locked her room on the first floor of Dr. S. B. Naik's house in Girgaum Road and went upstairs to see her relatives. On her return fifteen minutes later, she found the door open and thinking that some relative had called she went into the room, when she found the first accused and another man inside. They pushed her aside and ran away. She found her cupboards and trunks forced open and missed the ornaments. Shortly after, the first accused was seized by a servant of Dr. Naik in Bhai Jivanji's Lane and property worth Rs. 143 was recovered from him. He involved two other persons including the second accused who was alleged to have kept watch downstairs. The second accused was arrested the next day. The third man who had been in the room and had taken away the bulk of the property has not been traced yet. The first accused pleaded guilty and the second not guilty. The second accused was discharged for want of sufficient evidence. The first was convicted and as he had five previous convictions he was sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 250, in default, to six months' further rigorous imprisonment.

ILLICIT POSSESSION OF OPIUM.

ACCUSED SENTENCED TO SJX WEEKS' RIGOROUS IMPRISONMENT.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday, before the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Khan Saheb Kuverji Darasha, Chief Excise Inspector, charged one Piru Hyder, a Mahomedan, employed in the Alexandra Dock, with possessing seven pounds and fifteen tolas of opium, without a license.

In consequence of information received that the accused was dealing in opium at Null Bazaar and doing business with seafaring men going to China and Burma, the Excise officials had his movements watched and on Monday he was taken by surprise at Hornby Road by Mr. Kuverji Darasha and Excise Inspectors N. C. Cama, R. J. Deputy and A. Dyer. He was searched, when he was found in possession of the opium. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six weeks' rigorous imprisonment.

A MARWARI ROBBED.

ACCUSED GETS SIX WEEKS' HARD LABOUR.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday, before the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Sergeant Pryde charged Ramchandra Luxman with the theft of a purse containing silver coin and buttons valued at Rs. 12, belonging to Chaturbhai Tolsu, a Marwari. The accused stole the purse whilst Chaturbhai was boarding a tram-car. He was convicted and sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment.

COCAINE PROSECUTIONS.

ACCUSED FINED RS. 10 EACH.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday, before the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Excise Inspector Paruleker charged Rahimtulla Rajab, an umbrella repairer, and Gulam Ali Rasulji, a tinsmith, with possessing half a grain of cocaine each without a license at Kumbharwada on the 9th October. The accused were convicted and fined Rs. 10 each.

In consequence of the cholera epidemic voluntary inoculation against cholera of the troops in garrison in Karachi is now taking place.

MR. CHURCHILL ON WAR TOPICS.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS AFTER VICTORY

Mr. Winston Churchill opened at Cirencester on September 9 a fete in aid of the Russian Wounded and Scottish Prisoners of War Fund.

In the course of his address Mr. Churchill dealt with the progress of the war.

"What else," he observed, "is there in the world but the war? And what else is there in any of our minds but the [illegible] whole war and nothing but the war? That must animate all our actions, that must dominate all our arrangements, that must govern and inspire the whole of our national life. There are some who think that the end of the war may be near and that Germany is reeling. Very well, then, that is the moment to redouble our exertions, to gather together every scrap of energy, to hurl blow after blow, until the final knock-out is secured. (Cheers.)

"There are others who think that considerable stretches of stony roads are still to be traversed, and that at least another campaign will be required before victory, plain and unmistakable, the only kind of victory and peace that are worth winning, will be within our grasp. Very well, then, all the more let us prepare ourselves, let us gather together our whole strength, so as to meet the new difficulties, new dangers of the new year with new waves of enthusiasm and of power and with new hurricanes of ammunition."

AFTER-WAR PROSPECTS.

"I should like to say to you: 'Don't let us get talking too much about after the war,'" Mr. Churchill went on. "After the war all sorts of bright prospects will be opened. When we have won the war there are any number of fine things which we can do, and all classes will be able to participate. An opportunity unique in history will be provided to us. There will be a chance of building up a broader, better organised society here at home and rallying around it, binding to it by unbreakable ties those valiant friends and brothers from the Dominions who have come to our aid from across the oceans, and of welding together and weaving together all this fabric into one Imperial and national unity—when we have won the war; but and only when we have won the war."

NAVAL AND AIR SUPREMACY.

Mr. Churchill then referred to the Navy, which, he said, was never stronger than it was to-day, and never with more supreme control over the seas. The battle of Jutland showed that even in their own waters the German fleet dared not fight a decisive engagement with our line of battle.

As for the land forces, he said that the great new British Army, night and day, week in, week out, without rest or pause, was storming and thundering on the German lines with a courage never excelled in history, and with a devotion and sacrifice which no troops of any country had ever surpassed.

"Then there is the air. And there, too, we have reason to be satisfied and proud. The reports from the front are unanimous in testifying to the superiority which our airmen have obtained over the enemy in the field of battle. We cannot but be struck by the fact that we are getting a greater mastery of the problem of dealing with the German airships than we have ever had before."

THE BOMBAY CHRONICLE.

Wednesday, Ocober, 11, 1916.

DR. WILSON AND THE PIRATES.

President Wilson seems likely to excel all his previous records in ineptitude in dealing with the new crisis that has arisen through the recrudescence of submarine warfare against passenger and freight vessels. Six months ago the United States Government sent an ultimatum definitely threatening to sever diplomatic relations with Germany unless these methods of warfare were immediately abandoned. The German Government thought it wise to comply with the demand and there has been in the interval a comparative lull. In the meanwhile, however, the "frightfulness" party in Germany, otherwise known as the Tirpitz party, have carried on so effective an agitation that even the Imperial Chancellor, faced with a demand for his own removal, has surrendered and declared that he ought to be hanged if he refused to use every means in his power to inflict every injury possible on the enemy. The sequel we have seen in the arrival of armed submarines in American waters and the sinking of nine steamers in the course of a couple of days or so.

So far as is known at present there has been no loss of life, though it cannot be assumed that such is the case. The vessels have been sunk in waters where aid can be quickly brought and apparently in the case of some of the vessels, at any rate, time was given to the passengers to take to the boats. That, however, does not remove the acts of the German submarine commanders from the sphere of piracy. President Wilson himself phrased a very telling denunciation, in one of his earlier notes to Germany, of the suggestion that to commit the crew and passengers of a merchant vessel to open boats on the High Seas was a permissible act of warfare. It is an act of piracy according to all the recognised laws and accepted customs of naval warfare, which have always required the captors of a merchant vessel to take her to the nearest port of the belligerent country. We suppose there has been no more glaring instance of one country deliberately breaking its word to another even in the course of this remarkable war, than is provided by the spectacle of German submarines, six months after the undertaking given by their Government, openly defying the pledged word of the latter, almost within sight and sound of New York Harbour. It is clear that the United States Government had ample warning of the intention to renew this campaign of piracy. That Dr. von Bethmann-Holweg had surrendered to the Tirpitz agitation was seen from his recent speech in the Reichstag. But even before that it seems evident that the United States Ambassador had been warned of what was coming and it was openly announced that he had left Berlin for Washington for the purpose of consulting with President Wilson regarding this new state of affairs.

When U 53 entered Newport Harbour, therefore, it must have been known to the American authorities what was the real nature of her mission in spite of the pretence of bringing despatches for the German Ambassador. But if she had proceeded to sink vessels in the harbour itself one may wonder whether President Wilson would have thought that very drastic action was called for. On October the 8th or 9th, it is not quite clear which, it was known in New York and Washington that various vessels had been sunk practically at sight by German submarines. The New York papers burst into a chorus of indignant comment at what they described as "Prussian warfare in American waters" and urged that it was their Government's highest duty to go any length to end it. On the 10th Count Bernstorff called on President Wilson and delivered a letter from the Kaiser regarding the starving population of Poland. Before receiving the Ambassador, we are told, President Wilson informed the journalists that Germany would be held to the fulfilment of her promises to the United States and added that he had no right to question Germany's good faith. He added that he intended to bring the submarining close to the American coast to the attention of Count Bernstorff. In President Wilson's view therefore no promise has been broken. What he formerly described as an abominable act of humanity is now become permissible, and his only protest is a mild remonstrance at these unpleasant happenings being brought so close to his own shores. At least the open boat has a better chance of survival close to the American coast than in the middle of the Atlantic, where apparently Dr. Wilson would prefer that these things should take place. The Tirpitzites have scored a great triumph. They were right in their view that it was unnecessary and foolish to entertain any regard for American susceptibilities.

GERMAN EDUCATIONAL IDEALS.

As in England, the experiences of the war, are making the Germans overhaul the principles and practice of their educational system and forecast the best developments for the future. But it is characteristic of the German mind that the writers all of them presuppose that there will be war in the future, and education must prepare for it. War is taken for granted, and instead of discussing the reconstruction of education in such a way as to make war impossible, their sole idea is, by means of education, to produce the best possible men for fighting purposes. Speaking generally, says a writer in the "Manchester Guardian," who reviews the currents of thoughts on the subject in Germany, educational writers are sublimely satisfied with the way in which the aims and methods of their education have approved themselves again in this war as they did in the war of 1870-71. Writing at the end of the first year of war, when German arms were in the ascendant, they claimed that the German soldier had proved himself superior to the Russian and the Italian on two grounds: first, because the national system of education had imbued the youth of Germany with a stronger sense of discipline, and, secondly, because an educated population could lend itself more readily to organisation and concerted effort on the largest scale. Particular emphasis, has been laid on discipline and subordination of self. The elementary school has been credited with these results, as the part which secondary schools and the universities have played has also been specially commended. The Prussian educational discipline, we know, has been a discipline of the drill of compulsion, and positive direction, which was devoted to making every educated German a creature of the will of the State, that is, of militarism. That this discipline should be extolled is not surprising when it is remembered that the writers on education have been the products of universities which have felt the Prussian hankering after the whole earth and preached the Gospel of German Expansion. These learned praters on politics, "persons just as prolix and confused as 'the laborious German wits' whom Addison knew of, but claiming to be Professors of Realpolitik, are they who in Prussian journals and worldly wise men of affairs,"—these are they who in Prussian journals and lecture-theatres during the last two years "have dissertated like men of Gotham and rhapsodised like Bottoms bewitched."

The Ministry of Education has, of course, readily taken the tide of patriotic feeling at the flood. A new syllabus for the teaching of history has been promulgated which came into force last Easter,—Easter being the close of the educational year throughout Germany. The new syllabus is avowedly introduced as an experimental measure and headmasters are to report on its success in 1918. Briefly, the aim is to concentrate study upon the achievement of national unity under Prussia and the rise of united Germany to the position of a Great World Power. Hohenzollern day was made the occasion of opening the flood-gates of panegyric. The reigning dynasty was extolled as having given to Prussia the schools which had made it mighty in the world of learning and of military power. The reigning Emperor was extolled as the direct inspirer of all educational reforms which followed as the result of the great Conference of 1890. And yet what a Prussia it has been!

It is the qualities which have made this Prussia that are analysed by German writers on education, who emphasise the sense of social obligation and the habitude of obedience. The line of future development then becomes obvious. The authority of the State must increase, the individualism which was threatening the country must be repressed. In a word, "the State must be more and more; the individual less and less." And it is not surprising that the purport of Socialism is misinterpreted. Its teaching is held up as having been in reality individualistic in its tendency, because it disposes the individual "to make greater claims upon life for personal pleasure and self-indulgence." The extremists of this school would exclude all teaching of English and French from the schools, and admit Russian and Spanish only because of their commercial value. And as German education transcends every other in greatness, all disposition to study foreign systems, Swedish, English, or American, is sternly reprimanded.

Notes of the Day.

Exclusively Frightful.

It is characteristic of the new submarine campaign that, as we said yesterday, it is exclusively "frightful" and can have no sort of effect on the military situation of any of the belligerents. It might have been devised solely with a view to stirring up feeling in the United States against Germany. The only vessel, so far as present information goes, which it was any advantage to Germany to have sunk was the Christian Knudsen, apparently a Norwegian or Danish vessel carrying a cargo of oil for London. The sinking of another vessel which had a cargo of wheat for Rotterdam seems particularly foolish since the chances are that some of the wheat might have found its way into Germany. So far as the nationality of the vessels are concerned it need not be assumed, of course, that they are neutral because they bear names of Scandinavian origin, as they may have been chartered by British firms or by the British Government and have been sailing under the British flag. But a ship taking wheat to Rotterdam would certainly be Dutch and this is probably not the only neutral vessel among the victims. American ships are apparently to be spared judging by the fact that the Kansas was allowed to proceed after inspection of her papers.

A Callous Road Hog.

A correspondent writes that in Queens Road yesterday morning he witnessed a callous act on the part of a motorist of a kind that we fear is not as rare as one would like to think. The car, the number of which he supplies, ran over a dog which was crushed beneath the wheels. "The callous road hog," writes our correspondent, "drove placidly on, leaving the unfortunate creature writhing in agony. He was impervious to the plaintive cries of his victim. Evidently in his ignorance of universal kinship and the unity and sacredness of life the sufferings of a 'mere dog' appeared to this culprit too contemptible to merit notice." The writer expresses the hope that "the police will run him to earth and that he will meet with his deserts." We doubt how far the police would be able to deal with a case of this kind under any of the laws that apply to motorists. It is certainly a case, however, which the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals might take up. We shall be glad to supply the number of the car to the Police or to the Secretary of the Society, and we have no doubt our correspondent will gladly tender them any assistance necessary.

Venereal Diseases in India.

Among the questions asked at the last meeting of the Imperial Council was one by Sir Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy on the subject of venereal diseases. It will be remembered that the Report of the Royal Commission on Venereal diseases was published in England some months ago. Sir Fazulbhoy inquired if the Government of India had received a copy of this Report and if so, whether they proposed to give effect to such of its recommendations as were capable of being adapted to suit the needs of, and of being enforced in, this country. Sir Sankaran Nair replied that a copy of the Report had been received and that the Government had recently commended the Report and conclusions of the Commission to the consideration of Local Governments. Sir Fazulbhoy also asked whether history proved that there is an increase of venereal diseases after a war,—a rather large order for the Simla Secretariat which does not boast of possessing historians or sociologists. Nevertheless Sir Sankaran Nair had no hesitation in declaring that so far as the Government of India were aware there was no evidence that within modern times there is an increase of venereal diseases after a war.

No Statistics for India.

In reply to the further demand by Sir Fazulbhoy for figures as regards the extent of the prevalence of such diseases in the country before and since the war and any information regarding the facilities for treatment for the enlightenment of the ignorant and for the protection of the innocent with reference to such diseases. Sir Sankaran stated that there were no reliable figures regarding the prevalence of venereal diseases in India except in regard to the number of cases treated in hospitals and the ratio of admissions and deaths to strength of the British and Indian Army in India. These figures, however, he added, give no idea of the prevalence of venereal diseases throughout the country, nor would it be possible to obtain accurate statistics, because the majority of sufferers seek aid from private practitioners or neglect treatment altogether. He also stated that there are no special facilities in India for treatment, such as, for example, separate hospitals and dispensaries, but that these and other points in so far as they are dealt with in the conclusions of the Royal Commission have been referred to the consideration of Local Governments.

Primary Schools in India.

Referring to the announcement made by the Under-Secretary of State for India in 1912, and repeated by the Government of India in 1913, to the effect that it was contemplated to add 91,000 primary schools to the number already in existence in India, and to double the number of children receiving primary education, Mr. Srinivasa Sastri enquired at the last meeting of the Imperial Council whether any definite schemes had been formulated for the purpose. Sir Sankaran Nair in reply referred the Honourable Member to the reply given to Mr. Surendranath Banerjea in March last. But some idea of the inadequacy of steps taken by the Government to fulfil their undertaking can be gathered from the statement presented by Sir Sankaran Nair in reply to a similar question asked by Dr. Tej Bahadur Supru. This statement shows the number of primary schools for boys and girls, the number of scholars in such schools and the expenditure on such education for the years 1912-13 and 1914-15. Thus it is found that while the number of primary schools in 1912-13 was 127,727 it increased to only 131,712 in 1914-15, that is, by barely four thousand. Nor does the rate of increase in the number of students in these schools raise any hope that the undertaking given to double the number will be realised even within a decade. For while the number of such students was 5,265,861 in 1912-13 it rose only to 5,447,850 in 1914-15. And this is not surprising when it is found that the increase of expenditure within these two years amounted to only a little over Rs. 33 lakhs, the expenditure in 1912-13 and 1914-15 being Rs. 2,30,31,379 and Rs. 2,66,58,800 respectively.

Applications for permits should be made to the Military Governor at Basra, on special forms obtainable from the Chief Political Officer at Basra by the Agent of the steamer for which a permit is desired.

The grant of a permit will be telegraphed by the Agents to the Captain of the steamer and will be notified to the Examining Officer at Fao.

These regulations will come into operation at once, but will not be enforced in the case of ships due to leave Indian ports before 15th October or European ports before 1st November.

NEWPORT, Oct. 9.

The Nantucket Lightship reports that nine steamers have been sunk and three submarines are working. A passenger on the Stephano states that according to officers the Stephano was attacked by U61.

EXCITEMENT AT U. S. PORTS

RESCUE WORK BY AMERICAN DESTROYERS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM)

NEW YORK, Oct 9.

American destroyers are now speeding to Newport and Boston with the survivors of the crew of the Kingston and possibly the Kingstonian, which is not accounted for.

Submarine U53 left Newport on Saturday evening and early on Sunday encountered the American steamer Kansan. The submarine inspected her papers and allowed her to proceed. At six o'clock the submarine met the Strathdene and torpedoed her after the crew had taken to boats.

West Point was sunk at 11/45 only ten miles south of Nantucket. The Stephano was sunk at 4/30 with 90 passengers from St. John's. Presumably she was warned, for all got off safely and were picked up later by a destroyer. The Stephano was still afloat late at night, but was badly damaged.

The Kingston was sunk at six o'clock and then the Bloomersdijk, New York for Rotterdam with wheat for the Netherlands Government and the Christian Knudsen, which had a cargo of oil from New York for London.

The news of the raid spread rapidly and numerous steamers at various ports ready to sail remained in port while wireless warnings were sent to many ships at sea which scurried for the three mile limit or hurried outside steamer lines for round-about routes towards their destinations.

SUBMARINE U. 53.

COMMANDER'S SURPRISE AT NON-ARRIVAL OF BREMEN.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

The U53 emerged close to the American Fleet which was manoeuvring and the commander of the submarine was astounded to learn that the Bremen had not arrived, giving the impression that the submarine's mission was to escort the Bremen on her return voyage. But it is reported that the U53 brought an authorisation to Bernstorff to ascertain Dr. Wilson's views regarding an armistice.

NEWPORT (RHODE ISLAND), Oct. 9.

The submarine U53 took seventeen days on her voyage. She is 200 feet in length and is equipped with a particularly strong wireless. She has two guns and four torpedo tubes. She flew the German flag. Her commander is Lieutenant Hans Rose and she has four other officers and 33 men.

The submarine was escorted into the harbour by a United States submarine. Numerous visitors including newspaper men were allowed to inspect her.

The commander said that he did not see hostile craft. He had three months' provisions. He declined to say whether he had been ordered to search for the Bremen or not.

KAISER'S LETTER TO DR. WILSON.

NEW PIRACY AND GERMAN PROMISES.

PRESIDENT'S ASSURANCE TO JOURNALISTS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONG-BRANCH, Oct. 10.

Count Bernstorff called on President Wilson to deliver the Kaiser's answer to President Wilson's recent letter regarding America and starving Poland. The Kaiser's letter was among those brought by the U53. Before receiving Bernstorff President Wilson told the journalists that Germany would be held to complete fulfilment of her promises to the United States and added that he had no right to question Germany's good faith. President Wilson said that he intended to bring the matter of submarining close to the American coast to the attention of Bernstorff.

After Bernstorff's call it was stated that peace was not discussed, but Dr. Wilson brought up submarine attacks in the Atlantic Bernstorff told the President that he had no information from Germany, but he was confident that Germany's promises would be kept.

FAILURE OF GERMAN WAR LOAN.

LITTLE SUPPORT IN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL CIRCLES.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

ZURICH, Oct. 9.

Swiss financiers regard the results of the German loan as unsatisfactory and as even approaching a financial reverse.

They point out that Germany's war expenditure to the end of September was 2,600 millions sterling, of which only 1,825 were covered by four previous loans leaving a floating debt of 775 millions, which will be increased at the next meeting of the Reichstag when another war credit will be asked for.

Advices from Germany say that the loan met with little support in industrial and commercial circles outside war contractors and that the subscriptions came mainly from agricultural sources.

RIOT IN A GERMAN MUNITIONS FACTORY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, Oct. 10.

A "Civil and Military Gazette" cable says:—

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Oct. 9.

Germany is calling up males of seventeen years for military service.

BRITISH PUSH.

ADVANCE NORTH OF STUFF REDOUBT.

RAID ON ENEMY TRENCHES NEAR ARRAS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Last night's communiqué from General Haig reported that we had gained ground north of the Stuff Redoubt, where serious losses were inflicted on the enemy.

We entered enemy trenches south of Arras and took 200 prisoners.

In the neighbourhood of Le Transloy a party of the enemy was caught in the open by our artillery and dispersed.

A strong enemy party rushed a crater in front of our lines south-east of Souchez, but was immediately ejected with heavy casualties.

BRITISH PROGRESS EAST OF LE SARS.

SUCCESSFUL RAIDS ON ENEMY TRENCHES.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Oct. 9.

General Haig this afternoon says:—We made progress and established posts east of Le Sars in the direction of Butte-de-Warlencourt.

We successfully discharged gas at different points from the north of the Ancre. The enemy's reply was feeble and our patrols were able to enter hostile trenches and secure prisoners.

We carried out several raids on the enemy's trenches in the neighbourhoods of Neuville-St-Vaast and Loos, inflicting many casualties and taking prisoners.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY ON THE SOMME.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, Oct. 9.

A communiqué this afternoon reports that the night was quiet north of the Somme and there were reciprocal bombardments south of the Somme. A lively enemy bombardment took place at Cannysurmatz in Roye distict. Our artillery replied.

ENEMY ATTACK REPULSED.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS Oct. 10.

Las night's communiqué reported sustained reciprocal artillery firing on the Somme, which was especially lively a Barleux, Belloy and Deniecourt.

An enemy attack from the St.Pierre Vaast salient was repulsed and a subsequent reconnaissance was dispersed by machine-guns.

HOW LE SARS WAS CAPTURED.

A BLIND BATTLE.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Reuter's correspondent at Headquarters wires that the battle for Le Sars was largely a blind battle, dirty weather for several days preventing aerial reconnaissance. Thus the strength of the forces in new defences could not be ascertained accurately.

Numbers of fresh trenches strongly held were encountered, greatly impeding our progress from the direction of Eaucourt, but the force from the south swept on grandly till it reached a sunken road, emerging half way through the village.

Here violent resistance was encountered and hand-to-hand fighting lasting all day. Prisoners, of whom 300 were taken, say that the British fought like tigers. The defenders of the village included a battalion from Malines.

The great advantage of our new commanding positions was illustrated on Saturday, when artillery twice dispersed the enemy who were seen gathering for an attack.

THE DOBRUDJA.

LAND OF STEPPE AND LAGOON.

STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE.

The Dobrudja lies to the east of the Danube between it and the Black Sea, writes "The Times," in mail week. Roughly quadrilateral in form, about 160 miles long by 60 broad, it comprises within its area of 6,000 square miles lagoon, marsh, steppe, and mountain, the latter rising in the north-western corner to about 1,500 ft.

The central portion is a regular steppe, consisting of fine gray sand overlying limestone rock, with hardly a tree or running water. The rivers lose themselves before reaching the sea. All along the coast from Constantza northwards runs a belt of lagoons. The remainder of the coast is steep and high. As may be inferred the population is sparse.

The most important feature of the Dobrudja is the delta of the Danube, which occupies an immense triangular plain completely covered with reeds, and dotted with numerous lakes, connected by small canals with, and acting as reservoirs for, the three main arms of the Danube:—Kilia, Sulina, and the St. Georg. On account of strong currents and the large amount of silt the Kilia arm, the largest, is almost useless for navigation, and the same is, on the whole, the case with the St. Georg arm. The Sulina arm, owing to the activity of the European Danube Commission, has been made an easy and secure highway for navigation.

ROADS AND RAILWAYS.

Roads are not numerous, and only a few are good. The chief is one running parallel with the coast from Tultcha through Babadagh and Constanza to Mangalia, and another uniting Tultcha with Isatcha and Machin, on the Danube.

There is only one important railway line, that from Bucharest to Constantza. The Dobrudjan portion of the line between Tchernavoda and Constantza was built by an English Company in 1860, and acquired by the Roumanian Government in 1882. The Danube is crossed by means of a bridge 11¼ miles long between Fetechti and Tchernavoda. The structure consists of an irong bridge about 1,000 yards in length over the Borteha arm, of a dam with several viaducts eight miles long and 18ft. high over the marshy land, and of a second bridge, about one mile long, over the main Danube arm at Tchernavoda.

The most important port is Constantza, to the development of which much attention has been devoted. The town has also a great military value because it forms with Mangalia the only point where a safe landing can be made, and because its possession decides the fate of the powerful defensive line improperly called the "wall of Trajan." This work occupies the depression along which runs the railway line from Tchernavoda to Constantza, and consists of a complex system of three lines of entrenchments, studded throughout its whole length with fortified camps. Constantza, moreover, is on the shortest route from the Danube to the sea and is free from ice in the winter.

Second in importance for navigation is Sulina, at the mouth of the Sulina arm, a free port within the jurisdiction of the European Danube Commission. The other town, Mangalia, Tultcha, Reni—at the confluence of the Pruth—Isactcha (the best connexion between Bessarabia and Dobrudja), Silistria, etc., are only of secondary importance.

THE KEY OF THE DOBRUDJA

The position of Silistria gives it, however, a great strategical value, the late King Carol considering it "the key of the Dobrudja." In the opinion of the majority of the International Technical Commission which fixed the frontier between Bulgaria and Roumania in 1879-1880, Silistria should have been allotted to Roumania, But on account of the opposition of Russia, which was "all for Bulgaria" at the time, it was given to Bulgaria. The frontier agreed upon was impossible from a military point of view, and has been the cause of constant friction between Roumania and Bulgaria—especially as Bulgarian official publications openly considered Dobrudja as a "Bulgaria Irredenta." By the Peace of Bucharest of August, 1913, Silistria was ceded to Roumania.

The position of the Dobrudja allows an offensive from the north to be conducted on the eastern side of the Balkan peninsula. There are no mountain regions of importance all the way to Constantinople.

UNREST ON MOHMAND BORDER.

CONFINED TO A SMALL SECTION.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Oct. 10.

The "Pioneer" understands that the unrest on Mohmand Border is confined to a section of tribesmen and the bulk of people are engaged in getting in their crops and says:—

"We were never in a better position to deal with any hostile movement on the part of an unruly section then we are at present. There is a formidable force at our disposal on the frontier and the recollection of the effects of the previous blockade cannot fail to have deterrent effect on the potential disturbers."

MAROONED IN ANTARCTIC.

IN AN ICEHOLE UNDER A ROOF OF BOATS.

BLUBBER DIET.

Sir Ernest Shackleton and his men left Punta Arenas (Chile) in the middle of September for Buenos Ayres and will probably arrive in England at the end of this month.

Sir Ernest and Mr. Frank Wild granted the special correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" an interview, and gave him the first full account of the rescue of the marooned men on Elephant Island, and of their life there.

The icehole in which shelter was taken on landing soon became unbearable owing to the snow. Wild, realising that existence would be impossible under the conditions which had set in, turned the two remaining small boats upside down, supported them on rocks to form a roof, and fixed the spare canvas at the sides to make walls. Chronometer cases served for windows.

Upper bunks for half the party were provided by the thwarts, the remainder having to be content with beds made from pebbles collected from the beach. For light they had nothing better than a blubber lamp, while a cooking stove was extemporised out of an old oil tin. When Sir Ernest left there were rations for six weeks, but, realising that rescue might be delayed long beyond that period, Wild determined to exercise the most stringent economy.

It was necessary to utilise every scrap of seal, as, owing to the formation of an ice-foot on the beach, seals were unable to land. In an endeavour to provide a landing-place for the animals a channel was with great labour cut in the ice-foot and constantly kept open, but this work was only rarely rewarded by a catch. Gales were welcomed, for they cleared the sea of ice and penguins came to land. The following was described to me as the course of a typical winter's day: When dawn broke at eight o'clock the cook set to work to prepare breakfast, a task that with the primitive cooking arrangements at his disposal was a long one; and it was not until ten that the meal was ready. It consisted generally merely of penguin fried in blubber, with a drink of water.

PIPES OF BIRDS' BONES.

The morning's duties having been carried out, at one o'clock lunch—biscuits, with raw blubber—was served. The afternoon was occupied by regulated exercise over a track of a hundred yards in length. At five, when darkness fell, all were ready for dinner, the menu consisting of penguin breast with a sustaining hot drink made from one bovril ration. Lacking tobacco, the men smoked grass taken from the padding of their boots, while pipes were carved from birds' bones and wood.

At 5-30 all turned in. The members of the party took it in turns to read aloud from the only surviving books of the little library which had been rescued from the Endurance, the Bible, the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Browning, Carlyle's "French Revolution," and Bacon's Essays being read in turn.

On Saturday the evening was marked by a concert, the feature of which was banjo-playing by Hussey. This was the only musical instrument the marooned men possessed. Sir Ernest took it off the Endurance just before she was abandoned, "as a mental tonic."

The King's birthday was celebrated with as much eclat as possible, the Union Jack which his Majesty presented to Sir Ernest to carry on the expedition being hoisted, and the Royal health being loyally drunk in hot sledging ration.

On one occasion there was an unexpected addition to the bill of fare. Some undigested fish were found in the stomach of a seal and were greatly enjoyed. This was the only fish that was obtained, for it was impossible to put out any lines.

At the beginning of August they secured a welcome change of diet. The ice began to melt, and the rocks were exposed. Limpets were gathered in large numbers, and a great deal of seaweed was available, and made a valuable vegetable. During the latter part of their stay, owing to the comparatively high temperature, the interior of the improvised hut was constantly flooded, and an average of 70 gallons of water had to be baled out every night.

ANTARCTIC SURGERY.

By mid-winter practically all the frost-bite cases had recovered, except Blackboro and Hudson. When the doctors decided to operate on Blackboro blubber fires were lit in the hut so as to raise the temperature as high as possible. Then by the light of blubber lamps Blackboro's toes were successfully removed.

Two days before the rescue a heavy south-west blizzard swept the sea clear of pack ice. On August 30 the rescue ship Yelcho was sighted and smoke signals made to attract her attention. Within five minutes suspense was over. A boat was dropped and rowed rapidly towards the shore. Three ringing cheers greeted its approach, and as soon as Sir Ernest, who was in the boat, was within hail, a chorus of "All well" reached his ears. Navigation was difficult amid the rocks, but one by one, as chance offered, the men were taken off.

"When was the war over?" was the first question which Wild and his comrades put to their rescuers. They had heard nothing of the outside world since October, 1914, when the Endurance left Buenos Ayres.

MAHOMEDAN ELECTION ENQUIRY.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS

(Associated Press.)

POONA, Oct. 10.

The enquiry into the allegation of bribery in connection with the election of the Hon. Mr. Jinnah to the Imperial Council was to-day further proceeded with by Mr. Percival, District Judge.

The question of further witnesses Mr Binning proposed to call on behalf of his client, Mr. Rafiudin Ahmed, was decided. Mr. Binning said in addition to the Hon Mr. Edroos he proposed to call the Hon. Mr. J. D. Jenkins.

The court pointed out that Mr. Jenkins had written to say he could not give any evidence in the matter.

Mr. Binning then gave in the names of Kazi Abid, Mr. Hidyatulla Khan, Mr. Ebrahimji Adamji Pirbhoy, and the Havildar of Mr. Rafiudin Ahmed.

Mr. Jinnah wanted to know if Mr. Binning proposed to call the Hon. Mr Pathan.

Mr. Binning said Mr. Pathan had sent a medical certificate and it was evident he did not wish to come.

Mr. Jinnah said why he wished to know that was because he wanted to approach Mr. Pathan himself to see if he could give any evidence on his behalf, and he did not wish the other side afterwards to say that he had sent an agent to see Mr. Pathan.

Mr. Binning said he had no objection to Mr. Jinnah's agent approaching Mr. Pathan and asking him what he knew

These preliminaries over it was decided that the further hearing should be adjourned from to-morrow till the 25th instant to enable Mr. Binning's client to attend to his election campaign.

The hearing was then proceeded with.

Mr. Mahomed Salaudin, Inamdar of Poona, said he was a councillor of the Poona Municipality and an Honorary Magistrate. He first saw Gulam Ahmed at the Peerbhoy Mansions, between 10 and 11 a.m. on the 28th June. He went there to see Mr. Pathan. He had not known Mr. Pathan before. After Mr. Pathan and Mr. Rafiudin had gone to the Council meeting Mr. Rafaid asked Gulam Ahmed if Mr. Pathan was firm about giving his vote to Mr. Rafiudin. Gulam Ahmed took Mr. Rafaid out of the room and told him something. Mr. Rafaid then called witness into the room where they were talking and asked Gulam to repeat what he had told him. Gulam said Mr. Ebrahim had given him Rs. 500 to persuade Mr. Pathan to give his vote to Mr. Jinnah. Witness told Mr. Rafiudin about this next morning. He saw Gulam next on the night of the 8th August at Mr. Rafiudin's. Witness had been sent for by Mr. Rafiudin. Witness repeated the evidence about giving of the story in writing by Gulam Ahmed. Continuing he said he never saw tea given to Gulam Ahmed nor was Gulam threatened. He appeared to be in his senses and wrote the letter willingly. He and the Risaldar-Major left a few minutes after writing the letter. They were there about three-fourths of an hour.

IRRELEVANT EVIDENCE.

Kazi Mahomed Abid was then called as witness. He said he was the chief hereditary Kazi. Witness showed his sanads. On the 11th September last he went to Mr. Ebrahim Haroon's house as he had sent for him.

Mr. Jinnah said he objected to any statement made to witness by Mr. Ebrahim Haroon subsequent to the alleged corrupt practice going on record. He did not object to what had gone before the alleged corruption, but this was going too far.

Mr. Binning said section 8 of the Evidence Act applied to his contention as he wished to show that Mr. Ebrahim had collected evidence in connection with the information laid in the Cantonment Magistrate's court.

Mr. Jinnah:—Was Mr. Ebrahim my agent on the 11th September?

Mr. Binning:—Certainly, certainly, in everything connected with this case.

Mr. Jinnah: Does he continue to be my agent for ever? I say Mr. Ebrahim was never my agent. The court must decide whether even supposing Mr. Ebrahim was my agent he continues to be my agent during the whole time this case is pending.

Mr. Binning said if the Court was satisfied that Mr. Jinnah knew Mr. Ebrahim was working on his behalf, what Mr. Ebrahim did subsequently was relevant. This man went to this witness Kazi Abid and wanted him to state that Gulam Ahmed came to him on the morning of the 9th August and said he had been coerced into writing the letter.

After the matter had been argued further the Court held that the evidence was irrelevant as it could not be held that Mr Ebrahim was Mr. Jinnah's agent on the 11th September.

The Court, however, took a note of Mr. Binning's contention.

Kazi Abid's evidence was dispensed with.

Mr. Jinnah:—He had the satisfaction at least of showing everybody his sanads.

Mr. Binning:—But nobody looked at them. (Laughter.)

As Risaldar-Major Monohar Khan had not turned up and Mr. Jinnah wished to resume his cross-examination before taking up that of Mr. Salaudin the Court adjourned.

ALLAHABAD MUNICIPAL CONTRETEMPS.

RESIGNATION OF NEWLY ELECTED HINDU MEMBERS.

(Associated Press.)

ALLAHABAD, Oct. 10.

Another stage in the agitation against the new Municipal Act was reached to-day when at this morning's Board meeting the six newly elected Hindu members, as had been anticipated in some quarters, resigned their seats and left the hall, after Lala Sheocharan Lal had been elected the first non-official chairman of the Board. Mr. Crosthwaite presided at to-day's meeting for the last time. Mr. Milsted and Lala Sheocharan Lal, a member of the former board, who did not resign, were proposed as candidates for the chairmanship. Lala Sheocharan Lal securing a majority of votes was duly elected.

Before vacating the chair Mr. Crosthwaite said he regretted, that certain Hindu members who were his colleagues on the old board were no longer on the board. Time would show who were in the right. Their absence would make the work of the new Board more difficult and increase their responsibility. He wished the board success and would watch their progress with interest.

Mr. Zahur Ahmad thanked the retiring Chairman, in whom, he said, they lost a sympathetic presiding officer.

The six Hindu members, Mr. R. N. Basu, Mr. G. D. Kacker, Pundit Saligram, Mr. Harnandan Prasad, Mr. Vishau Nath and Pundit Beharilal Malaviya then handed in written resignations of their seats on the Board, stating they were in a hopeless minority owing to the operation of Jehangirabad clauses in the new Bill, and unless it was considerably modified the position of the Hindus would be pitiable. The resignations will be forwarded to the Commissioner of the Division for disposal.

The elections of the Vice-Chairman and various committees were then proceeded with. Mr. Milsted was elected senior and Mr. Baqui Khan junior Vice-Chairman.

RAILWAY SERVANT'S CONVICTION SET ASIDE.

A BURMA CASE.

(Associated Press.)

RANGOON, Oct. 10.

Recently the District Magistrate of Yamethin sentenced Budiya, a railway employe, to seven years' transportation on a charge of driving two dog-spikes into the joints of railway line between poles 247-17 and 247-16 with intent to endanger the safety of persons travelling by train. On appeal to the Judicial Commissioner, Upper Burma, his Honour directed the lower Court to record evidence on several points that had not been considered. That was done, and the Judicial Commissioner has now in view of that supplementary evidence not found it possible to maintain the conviction and sentence on the appellant, which were set aside.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

VAKILS' RIGHT OF AUDIENCE ON ORIGINAL SIDE.

(Associated Press.)

MADRAS, Oct. 10.

Mr. Justice Coutts Trotter, to-day delivered judgment in the matter in which Mr. Ramaswamy Iyer, an attorney, raised the question of his right to plead on the original side of the High Court.

His Lordship traced the history of the Courts of Judicature in India and in Presidency towns and stated that the old Supreme Court of Madras had no power to admit persons other than barristers and attorneys who pleaded in the court. Having referred next to the High Courts Act of 1861 and Letters Patent promulgated thereunder His Lordship gave it as his opinion that the new High Court constituted under the Act of 1861 was separate from the old Supreme Court and the Sudder Court. Having next discussed the rules passed under the authority of Letters Patent of 1862 and under the authority of the Charter Act of 1861, His Lordship reviewed the two sets of rules of the High Court which were framed under Letters Patent. After discussing also Letters Patent of 1865 in which vakils' rights of audience were referred to, His Lordship considered the new rules framed in July 1883 about the enrollment of vakils and the right of audience accorded to them in all matters in which the High Court had jurisdiction. His Lordship said that he was bound by the Full Bench decision in 1 Madras 24.

Towards the end of his judgment His Lordship referred to the contention raised on behalf of attorneys in regard to section 4 of the Legal Practitioners' Act and said that neither that section nor section 24 took away the right of vakils to audience on the original side. His Lordship, however, refused to go into the question of fees payable to vakils. On a review of all the facts and arguments, His Lordship held that vakils had a right of audience on the original side while attorneys had not.

The death took place of Rai Jamini Mohan Das Bahadur, Collector of Stamp Revenue Calcutta on Saturday from an attack of dropsy. He was a trusted officer and succeeded through his son, an approver in several conspiracy cases, in securing the conviction of a large number of anarchists of Dacca and Barisal.

ZEPPELIN RAIDS.

A GERMAN EXPERT'S DOUBT.

The truth as to the utter futility of the Zeppelin attacks is apparently dawning in Germany. Nothing else could well explain a remarkable article by Captain Persius in the "Berliner Tageblatt." Hitherto this apostle of frightfulness had been one of the foremost advocates of the use of airships against England, and that for purely destructive purposes. He has now adopted quite a new tone, suggesting that the effectiveness of the raids consists not in the actual damage, but in the indirect consequences, such as interference with traffic. He wrote in a recent issue:

"The chief use and object of the airship attacks on England consists in damaging military means and power of our most dangerous enemy. The idea of what are military forces is not a narrow one. Not only may bombs be thrown upon fortified places, warships, and workshops for making shells and ammunition of all kinds in order to destroy them, but they are also intended to destroy places of economic importance, which, if they remain untouched, would add more or less to England's power to continue the war. To the economic places which are looked upon as proper objects for bombs, such as railways, docks, and wharves, may be added coal and oil depots, electricity and gas works, buildings which serve for a meteorological purpose when they are in military hands, such, for instance, as Greenwich Observatory. All these are valuable targets, and the list could be continued "ad infinitum."

As to the damage which our ships have caused up till now in England there must not be forgotten their effect on the army organisation on the Continent. The measures of defence taken in England demand a considerable number of military persons and much material. Numberless defence stations have been created which demand the attention of many thousands of officers and men including those for serving and ranging the guns and the manipulation of searchlights and so on requiring the services of very careful and highly trained men. Numberless aviators are also engaged in anti-aircraft work. Guns, munitions, searchlights, aeroplanes, etc., have had to be created for this purpose. There are other consequences of our airship attacks which we must take into account, even if they did little or no damage. When the alarm of an attack is raised everything has to be darkened causing considerable disturbances and delays, especially in railway and harbour traffic. Every attack causes anxieties in all kinds of organisations. Many long prepared dispositions are upset, and, for instance, the transport of contingents of men or war material to the Continent is delayed, so that they do not arrive at the fixed hour.

It would be premature to express any decided hope as to the further success of the airships and as to whether they can be of any decisive influence upon the carrying on of the war. We must wait to see what improvements the enemy will make in the sphere of combating our attacks. If all exertions of this kind should fail to produce the effective result so that the competition is decided in favour of the offensive then future airship activity offers a prospect of unlimited possibilities of the greatest significance."

A WONDERFUL FLESH BUILDER FOR THIN PEOPLE.

It is generally admitted that the formation of flesh depends largely upon the power of assimilation, and all physicians agree that people who assimilate their food properly are always well and firmly developed without being excessively fat. If everyone possessed perfect assimilation, there would be no thin, scraggy men or women, and it is extremely interesting to note that specialists are now advising the use of a highly concentrated food product known as Phormoid, which possesses remarkable properties for strengthening the nerve tissues and increasing the power of assimilation, thus making it possible for the thinnest of men or women to put on flesh in the most rapid manner. Being supplied in tablets (which may be eaten like a wafer) it is very pleasant and easy to take, and undoubtedly the most effective and inexpensive method of increasing one's weight and improving one's appearance.

Caution to Ladies.—Thin ladies who object to an increased bust development should not take Phormoid as it generally develops the bust from three to four inches in a few weeks.
